Pipe Organ Installed In Methodist Church

W. P. Watts, well-known citrus grower, has presented to the Covina Methodist church a new pipe organ. He informed the official board of the church of his intentions some months ago. The organ arrived this week and is now being installed. It is a Moller instrument, costing $4000 at the factory. It will probably take some eight days to install the organ. At as early a date as possible a recital will be arranged, providing an opportunity for the music-lovers of the valley to inspect and listen to the new instrument. This is the first church in Covina to install a pipe organ. At the regular church services, Mrs. Randall Chew, who has been the pianist at the church for a number of years, will preside at the organ.

Frost Machine Will Be Shown Tonight

By EDWARD INSLEY.
Fame has come to Covina because of the movement originating in this city to find a substitute for present methods of orchard heating, free from the objectionable features of the smudge pot. The wide interest manifested in the successful frostless convention of April 29 is likely to be continued in another form, a local experiment with a new device for driving away Jack Frost. "The Covina Plan" is the name favored for a frost prevention machine which has been devised by W. D. Waterman of Los Angeles. It is expected that the erection of the first actual working model will be begun in one of the Covina citrus orchards within a week or ten days. Mr. Waterman is an aeronautical engineer of long experience and thoroughly familiar with the problem to be solved. He did not appear before the convention at the American Legion pavilion.

DeMolay Chapter Is Organized By Masons

Steps are being taken by the Masons of the Upper San Gabriel valley toward the organization of a chapter of the Order of DeMolay, a fraternity to which the sons of Masons and other boys who have not yet reached their majority are eligible.

The local chapter is being sponsored by Covina Commandery of Knights Templar, of which the commander, H. H. Looze, is chairman of the advisory committee. The name adopted for the chapter is "Glencosa," a composite word, utilizing two letters from the names of the four principal towns of the valley—Glendora, Puente, Covina, and Azusa.

The Order of DeMolay is three years old, being first started by the Masonic lodges of Kansas City. There are now more than five hundred chapters in the United States, and the organization is gaining worldwide recognition. The order derives its name from the martyred grand commander of Knights Templar, Jacques DeMolay, who was imprisoned for seven years by the French at the instigation of Pope Clement, the fifth pope of that name. He died a martyr at the stake on an island in the river Seine on the evening of May 18th, 1314.

The DeMolay is non-sectarian, and only boys from 16 to 21 are eligible to petition for membership. They must have the recommendation of two Master Masons. The meetings will be held on Friday evenings in the Masonic Temple. The drill team will be under the direction of R. A. Geiser, generalissimo of Covina Commandery.

Real Estate Man Dies at Baldwin Park Home

Jordan Shultis, aged 81 years, for twenty-five years a real estate and insurance man of Los Angeles, with offices on South Broadway, died at the home of his only child, D. J. Shultis of Baldwin Park on Sunday.

He was born in Wisconsin and had been a resident of California for the past thirty-eight years. He was the last of a family of ten brothers and one sister. He had been in ailing health for twelve years, but only confined to his bed for the ten days preceding his death.

The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the chapel at the Evergreen cemetery, Los Angeles. The services were in charge of the Masons of Eastgate lodge of Los Angeles, of which he was a member.

EXPOSITION AIDS PIONIC AT ANAHEIM LANDING

On Saturday last the young people of the Covina high school who had been officially connected with the pan-city exposition, enjoyed an all-day picnic at Anaheim landing. The party was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Eddy, Mrs. Frank H. Wright, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Webber. The picnic was the outgrowth of the thought of Mr. Webber, chairman of the executive committee.

P. J. Ross would like to place his heavy hand on the man or boy who stole all the tools out of his Ford car on Tuesday night of last week while parked in front of the Woman's clubhouse. Ross was attending the Men's Club dinner. There have been a number of complaints of a similar nature filed recently with the local police authorities.

The local W. C. T. U. will hold its next meeting on Friday, the 19th, at the home of Mrs. J. M. Crane of 148 West Center street. The program will be detailed in the paper next week.

Reorganization Made For School Boards

In accord with the state law, the Covina high and grammar school boards met on Saturday and reorganized for the ensuing year.

Charles E. Paige, the newly elected member, was elected president of the high school board. He succeeds George F. Chamberlen, who has served as president for the past two years. S. A. Stowell, the representative from Charter Oak, was re-elected clerk of the board.

There was no change made in the reorganization of the Covina grammar school board. George B. Scofield was re-elected to the chairmanship, and W. W. Nash will again fill the office of clerk. At the election in April, Thomas B. Reed had been elected as a member of the board without opposition.

Covina Putting Over Salvation Army Drive

The enthusiasm of the committees appointed by the Covina chamber of commerce to conduct the Salvation Army drive in Covina reminds one of the great war days, said Dr. J. D. Reed, president of the chamber of commerce, as the canvassers were making their report yesterday. Covina's allotment of this worthy drive is $500, which will surely be met.

Brigadier Boyd emphasizes the importance of the campaign this year because additional demands on the resources of the Salvation Army in Southern California. He states that it will be imperative to provide a budget that will meet the financial requirements of the various departments of welfare work, which includes hotel for men, free employment agencies, stores for families of the poor, a young woman's boarding house, a rescue and maternity home.

Charming Wedding At Woman's Clubhouse

The marriage of Mrs. Beatrice Saunders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Berman of Mountain View ranch, to Mr. William Scott, a business man of Los Angeles, was solemnized Sunday afternoon at the Covina Woman's clubhouse by the Rev. Mr. Lucas, pastor of the Seventh Day Adventist church of Pasadena.

The clubhouse had been beautifully decorated with roses and greenery for the occasion. The bride was charmingly gowned and was attended by her sister and two intimate friends. Instrumental music was furnished by Cecil Burk, violin, accompanied by his sister, Miss Thelma Burke, on the piano. Mrs. W. P. Magan sang Cadman's "Because" and "Dawning." Following the ceremony refreshments were served in the parlors of the clubhouse. Mr. and Mrs. Scott left later in the afternoon for San Francisco. Upon their return they will make their home in Los Angeles.

PARENT-TEACHER OFFICERS ELECTED FOR COMING YEAR

At the business meeting of the Parent-Teachers' association held on last Tuesday at the grammar school, interesting reports from the chairmen of the various committees were read and the election of officers was held. Officers for the ensuing year will be: president, Mrs. G. M. Jennings; vice-president, Mrs. H. Temple; secretary, Miss Dora Buckworth; treasurer, Mrs. G. A. Knorr. A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Temple for her efficient guidance of the association during her two years as president.

The last meeting of the year of the Covina federation will be held this afternoon at West Covina at the clubhouse, when that district will act as hostess to the federation.

PIONEERS, AHoy!

Who in Covina came to California, by migration or birth, before 1860? The Sacramento chamber of commerce is asking. It invites all such ancient persons to be its guests at a swell dinner at Sacramento the evening of May 24. This assemblage of Golden State pioneers is a part of the "Days of '49" celebration that is being staged in the Capital City, and will be a reunion of the greatest interest. Have we such a venerable person among us?

Mr. and Mrs. R. Crook and daughter, Miss Kathryn, of Navilla Place, will spend this week-end at Long Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Ben Swartz arrived this week from Ohio, where they have been spending the winter months.

Druggist Succumbs To Acute Indigestion

The sudden death, early on Friday morning, of L. U. Bowman, one of the owners of the Baldwin Park drug store, came as a surprise. Mr. Bowman was taken suddenly ill with an acute attack of indigestion shortly before midnight Thursday and in less than an hour death ensued.

The funeral services were held on Tuesday in the chapel of the Custer & Christensen undertaking parlors. The services, largely attended, were in charge of Mr. Woods, pastor of the Baldwin Park Community church. The casket and chancel of the chapel were covered with a mass of beautiful floral tributes. At the Oakdale cemetery the services were conducted by the Masons, of which fraternity the deceased had been a member for a number of years. Past Master George B. Scofield of Covina lodge read the impressive Masonic ritual. An escort of Knights Templar were in attendance. The pallbearers were C. H. Banks, George H. Maxfield, Dr. C. H. Morgan, F. L. Crane, S. W. Barnes, and George E. Alderson.

The deceased moved to California from Illinois about five years ago. For the past three years he has been engaged in the drug business in Baldwin Park, being associated with his brother, R. M. Bowman of Covina. He leaves a widow to mourn his loss. He was a member of Paris lodge, F. & A. M., Edgar chapter, No. 32, and Palestine commandery of Illinois.

Many Ladies Attend Legion Boxing Bouts

It was ladies' night, last Friday, at the boxing pavilion of the American Legion, over one hundred of the fair sex gracing the occasion. Judging from the enthusiasm that they displayed, it was very evident that the noble art of boxing, Jimmie Brenton was awarded a close decision over Kid Mende of Los Angeles. Brenton is always a favorite with the Covina fans. Teddie Levin met defeat at the hands of Kid Dalton. The fight between Jake Poole and Bud Garber was stopped in the early part of the third round, as Poole was in difficulties from the furious onslaught of his opponent. Battling Sabo knocked out his opponent, Joe Citron. Joe Layman was awarded a decision over Thad Warsaw, and Jack Brown of El Monte stopped his man, Leo Watson, in the first round. Another bout will be held next Friday evening, May 19th. On account of difficulty with the apparatus, the radio concert which was scheduled to be given last Friday evening, was not given, but the R. C. Baldrige Company, who have installed the outfit, say that it will probably be in working order for the next event.

Prejudice Against Glasses

Persons are often prejudiced against glasses and sometimes positively refuse to wear them even when they know they are imperatively needed.

But a contest with age is hopeless, and it is the part of wisdom to yield gracefully to the first summons to surrender. I am prepared to give you advice in this matter—correct advice, time-saving, sight-saving advice. I have the proper equipment for making thorough and intelligent examinations of your eyes and if you need glasses, will furnish them at as low a figure and correctly ground lenses and perfect fitting frames can be had anywhere.

Miss Margery Wolfarth returned to her home on Saturday evening after a visit of three weeks with her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bowman of Westmoreland, Imperial valley. During her stay there she visited Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Thompson, relatives of Mrs. J. I. Stanton of Ben Lomond avenue, recent arrivals from Kansas City, moved this week to Long Beach, where Mr. Thompson has accepted a position.

inspired by several Covina growers, by special invitation.

A Covina syndicate has been formed to build the first full-sized machine and it includes many well-known local names, among them members of the frost prevention committee of the chamber of commerce, which arranged the recent convention.

The Waterman machine is a combination of heat with airplane propulsion, but in a different form from other models exhibited at the convention. The plan has appealed to many who have seen it, not only on account of apparent efficiency, but its comparative cheapness, and ease of operation.

Mr. Waterman will bring his model to Covina again today, and it will be on exhibition to all those interested at the Masonic temple this evening.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS IN IOWA ARE IMPROVING

Charles S. Berry, well-known rancher, returned this week from a hasty trip to Iowa, where he went to accompany the remains of his sister, who died recently at the family home on Barranca street. Mr. Berry made the round trip in sixteen days.

Business conditions in the state of Iowa are steadily improving, said Mr. Berry, when seen by an Argus representative. The farmers of Iowa are very optimistic as to the outcome of the present year, and everything would indicate to me that the good old state of my birth has a prosperous year ahead of it, said Mr. Berry.

SEVENTY-FIVE COVINAITES ATTEND MISSION PLAY

A party of over seventy-five Covina people attended the Mission Play at San Gabriel on Wednesday evening. This pleasant theater party was given under the auspices of the Covina chamber of commerce. Many of those who attended had seen the play before, some of them four or five times, but no one seems to tire of the gripping story, portrayed in John McGroarty's poetic style, of the early history of California and the mission fathers.

Tom Mix Is Coming In "Up and Going"

Another speedy Tom Mix picture, full of stunts and tricks and good humor, will be shown at the Covina theater today and tomorrow. It is a Fox production called "Up and Going," a story of the Canadian Northwest, written by Mix and his director, Lynn Reynolds.

For action and picturesqueness, "Up and Going" is said to be Mix's most entertaining picture. The picture was made in the north country, with its snow, its bleakness, its fast-flowing rivers and its great silence, and with characters rough, but made of either pure gold or a base metal.

One of the big scenes is said to be a fight under water between Mix and Sid Jordan. In this picture there are some beautiful moonlight canoe scenes, and thrilling rides through rapids. Eva Novak is opposite Mix.

"The Wonderful Thing" is the title of the latest production starring Norma Talmadge, distributed by Associated First National Pictures, Inc. It is announced as the attraction Monday and Tuesday nights. Herbert Brenon and Clara Beranger adapted the story from the stage play of the same name, written by Lillian Trimble Bradley and Forrest Halsey.

Is This a Nation of Thieves?

A cabled story from Berlin last month that 17,000 freight cars had been stolen in Germany since the armistice has been made the object of much merriment by American newspapers.

A little serious reflection reveals the fact that we had better look at home—better throw a stone in our own glass houses. There is no other such stealing in all the world as is done on American railroads. The only figures made up for a full year as yet are for 1919, when seventy-five million dollars' worth of goods were stole out of American railroad cars.

The record shows that no object less than a ton's weight was safe against the thieves of the rail. Much small package pilfering occurred, but there are tens of thousands of reports per year of goods that must have been carried away in wagons or motor trucks.

This thievery is taking place in all parts of the United States, and no doubt there are organized bands engaged in it in some parts. The total loss, which must be paid by the railroads, is one of the chief problems of financial railroading today.

When we take into account all the local, petty and grand larceny cases and burglaries regularly reported every day of the year in all of our cities and towns; when we read of daily hold-ups and bandit attacks on banks all over the country; when we think of the mammoth losses of the railroads; when we note the hundreds of millions that are lost annually by gullible people to stock promotion fakers and innumerable sharpers of all kinds, we could hardly blame a foreigner if he said after a year on our shores that this is a nation of thieves.

Watch Your Outside Switches

Fire insurance companies are likely to cause a severe setback to the development of wireless telephony unless the owners of wireless sets display a caution that will offset attack. Chiefly the amateur "listeners in" should see to it that in the installation of their miniature plants and their outside switches they cover the local fire and building regulations. Already the insurance companies have given a fair indication of their attitude in the settlement of fire claims. Some of them have alleged that the aeriels constitute a danger, though it has been clearly demonstrated that such is not a fact. Nevertheless, in case of fire disputes, claims are always troublesome, and in most cases an individual is at a disadvantage when fighting a rich corporation to which lawsuits are an incidental part of the routine day's work.

We owe the rapid development of wireless communication to the genius and interest of the American boy, and it would be a pity if in his further aid to development negligence should halt the advance of what is bound to be the most civilizing influence of the country. Watch your switches. Lightning is not attracted by aeriels, but switches put up in defiance of the fire laws may be found to be costly. If, on the other hand, the plants are erected and have the official O. K. of the authorities, the insurance companies will not have anything to fall back upon. Once more we say, watch your outside switches.

The Passing of "Uncle Joe"

Regardless of political opinion or affiliation, the country generally will shake hands with a feeling of kindness, if not regret, when "Uncle Joe" Cannon passes into private life at the end of the present session of congress. Eighty-six years old this week, and serving his twenty-third term, "Uncle Joe" has stood as one of the last of the picturesque figures that marked the American congress of a decade ago as something different in the world of legislation. Nor can it be denied he has given good advice to the state as well as to the party.

Uncle Joe's saving grace lay in his sense of humor. He took events more seriously than men. Himself he never seemed to take seriously at all. When two years ago his friends gathered to honor him there was a delightful charm in his brief remarks.

"The year 1872 was a memorable one in many respects," said Uncle Joe. "Vesuvius had a violent eruption, General Isaac Sherwood and I were elected to the house, and there were other happenings—the organization of the German empire, and the French republic, the emancipation of slaves in Porto Rico, the connection of Australia with the rest of the world by cable, the great fire at Boston, and the Geneva award. But these concerned the world at large, while the election of my friend and colleague and myself was personal."

Uncle Joe has never considered himself a world figure. Perhaps he is not, but when he shall have passed to the slippers and the fireside it will not be without having left his stamp on American life and legislation. At least he has taught us not to be too deeply impressed by the sensation of the hour, but to realize that the sudden and seeming vital things in life are but of passing moment and often unimportant in the light of time.

May Day Celebration at Covina

Puente Journal: Covina did herself proud in her annual May Day festival held last Saturday. Of great importance to citrus growers was the demonstration of various devices to lessen or prevent frost damage. While this theoretical demonstration was of an experimental nature, many valuable suggestions were brought out which cannot help but be highly beneficial in fighting future frosts, should such ever again be necessary. The parade, in which many elaborate floats participated, was one of the best ever seen in the valley and the Covina folks are to be congratulated on the all around success of the entire affair.

Piston clearances /

4/1000 of an inch when cold 1/1000 of an inch under fire

An automobile engine having a 4" bore will have when cold a clearance between its pistons and cylinders of approximately 4/1000 of an inch. When the same engine has been heated to operating temperature, this clearance will have decreased 75%, or to 1/1000 of an inch.

Likewise, a main crankshaft bearing having a clearance of about 1 1/2/1000 of an inch when cold, will show a decrease in this clearance at operating temperature to less than 1/2/1000 of an inch.

All oils lose viscosity, that is, they become lighter in body when subjected to the heat of engine operation.

An analysis of Zerolene shows that the difference in its body at the various engine temperatures, from cold to operating temperature, follow in close relation the decrease in bearing clearances.

The right body at all operating temperatures

For this reason Zerolene oils have at all engine temperatures exactly the required body to splash and flow freely into the fast-moving, small-clearance bearings to provide an adequate film of lubricant.

Because of their "oiliness," Zerolene oils cling to bearing surfaces, and at the same time offer in themselves a minimum of resistance to the engine power going to the driving wheels. For this reason they give perfect lubrication and permit the development of the maximum power, speed and gasoline mileage of the car.

Reciprocity Function Held by Woman's Club

(Mrs. Mary M. Coman.)

Everywhere in Southern California the one great event of the woman's club year is Reciprocity Day, which is planned weeks in advance, that the very best of all that the local club can give may be offered to the honored guests. The choicest blossoms are carefully tended and gathered to adorn the festal board, the club rooms and platform; the finest obtainable music and art are arranged for the entertaining program and each and every detail of the day is given most careful consideration. Monday last was the all-eventful day for the Covina Monday Afternoon Club and although the lowering skies failed to smile, the welcome accorded the fifty or more special guests was as warm and cordial as the most radiant sunshine. Prior to the luncheon, served in the club house under the capable direction of Mrs. W. W. Nash, the guests were received by the club president, Mrs. Chas. E. Paige, assisted by members of the executive board, at the home of Mrs. Charles Pierson, next door to the club house.

Among the prominent guests were Mrs. Sidney Thomas Exley, state vice-president, in line for the presidency; Mrs. John C. Urquhart, president of the Los Angeles district federation; Mrs. Charles McKeivley, parliamentarian for this district; Mrs. H. F. Boesch, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. S. Trewhella, vice-president; Mrs. William Sherwood, president of the Ramona Park club; Mrs. George L. Spence, of the Monrovia club; Mrs. Ellen Beach Yaw Cannon, Mrs. Jerome Reynolds, Mrs. C. E. Leighton and Mrs. W. P. Nye of Covina. The special guests of honor were seated, with the president, Mrs. Paige, at a large table in the center of the room, with specially beautiful decorations of rare Madame Cochet roses, and individual boutonnieres of sweet peas of the same shade, with maiden hair fern. Scattered about the room were small tables for four, at each of which was a special guest, a president (or her representative) from the clubs in near-by towns. About two hundred were seated for the daintily appointed luncheon, during which Mrs. Randall Chew gave several greatly appreciated piano selections.

Following the luncheon, Mrs. Paige, gave a happy and hearty welcome to the guests in the name of the Monday Afternoon club and then introduced Mrs. Exley, who told in a humorous way of the joys as well as trials which were hers as chairman of the program committee for the state convention of last week. But she also emphasized the unusually high standards of the gathering, the theme of which was "Citizenship at Work and at Play." Mrs. Urquhart was the next speaker, urging the club women everywhere to "Make the Best Film pay Best," and attend the theaters where only the best pictures are shown, this being "better film week." She also stressed the new Fourth of July plan for better citizenship, an appropriate observance and recognition of the new citizens, our young men and women who have become of age during the year. Mrs. Charles McKeivley, a friend of Mrs. Paige, expressed herself as pleased to be a guest and then spoke briefly of her work as parliamentarian for the district.

The afternoon program, which was excellent, was given entirely by home talent and proved to be most entertaining. Mrs. George Phillips gave, with fine interpretation, Roff's "Fantarie-Pollonaise" and as a well deserved encore, Nevin's delicate and dainty composition, "In My Neighbor's Garden." Twelve members of the Lyric club next gave three charming numbers, "Wanderer's Evening Song," (Rubenstein) the always fascinating "Kerry Dance," (Malloy-Wilkins) and "To a Wild Rose," (McDowell).

A comedy, in one act, "The Piper's Pay," by Margaret Cameron, was then presented by seven members of the drama section of the club, directed by Miss Leora Baxter and with the properties in charge of Mrs. Tom Brunjes. Mrs. George Kerekhoff was "Peggy," a regular souvenir fiend, taking (not stealing) spoons from cafes and restaurants, and the part was taken admirably. Miss Gertrude Ives was the recently married Mrs. Charles Dover, a close friend of Peggy and as deeply involved in the souvenir craze. Her constant references to "Charlie" were most amusing. The dignified matron, Mrs. Herford-Carr was remarkably well portrayed by Mrs. Charles Gray, while Miss Helen Broadwell showed real histrionic ability, as did Mrs. Percy Jackson, the former in her character of the cool and critical Miss Freda Dixon and the latter as the clever and sharp eyed detective-maid. Mrs. Ronald Taylor made a characteristic reporter with a sharp nose for news, while Mrs. Harold Houser was the suspected maid who remained under a cloud until the end. The whole well-played comedy carried its clear lesson that stealing is stealing by whatever other less harsh name the action be called.

The decorations of the day were in charge of Mrs. H. S. Goode, assisted by Miss Victoria Reynolds, Miss Augusta Saunders, Mrs. George Shaw, Mrs. John Lang, Mrs. William Thorne, Mrs. C. H. Beattie and Mrs. S. S. Aschenbrenner. The color motive was pale pink, delicate violet and white, and into this scheme were interwoven hundreds of blossoms from desert, canyon and garden. On the luncheon tables for four were small bouquets of rarely beautiful desert wild flowers, graceful and fragrant, while above the sides of the room and front of the balcony were desert sage in blue-violet tints, Killarney roses and trailing wisteria. About the stage in tall vases of white were masses of white syringa while the pink roses gracefully arranged outlined the stage. Although the Covina club is noted for its always beautifully decorated building, the flowers and artistic arrangements of Monday quite excelled anything of the year.

All told, the day was a wonderful success in every way and will be long remembered as the great red letter day of the club year.

Torrid Heat 140°

A few women still swelter in heat nearly that great, bending over boiling tubs filled with hot water, these warm days. The family washing is the toughest job around the house in any kind of weather, but during the hot summer months, it is trying on a woman's strength and endurance.

No wonder women would rather take positions outside than do housework when doing the family washing is one of the household tasks! Two minutes will suffice to do the laundry work if you will let us help: one minute to bundle up the things and another to untie the package and put them away when they are returned from the laundry.

PRACTICAL RESULTS WITH HEATERS IN RELATION TO VALLEY PROSPERITY

By C. A. GRIFFITH

(Editor:—Mr. Griffith is the president and general manager of the Azusa Foothill ranch, the third largest citrus property in California, comprising 700 acres.
By orchard heaters, commonly spoken of as "smudge pots," he was enabled this year to save practically the entire crop of citrus fruit grown on the ranch, 70 per cent of which is now being marketed under the "Sunkist" brand. His address at the frost prevention convention in Covina was based on actual experience and practical results, and is therefore worthy the consideration of every citrus grower. The address, as printed below, is taken from stenographic notes.)

It seems to me that in considering the question of prevention of frost we must look at it from several different angles.
Your chairman, Mr. Crawford, has just reminded you of the grower who has lost only two crops in the last forty years. Perhaps prior to the year 1913 it was a good deal easier to ship frosted fruit from California than it is now, and I imagine in the old days many hundreds of cars were shipped from California that would not pass muster now.
In those days we had a shorter crop, and it was not necessary to make such an extensive campaign of selling throughout the east. But now, the man who buys a dozen frosted oranges is not coming back for a second lot until he forgets about the first dozen.

So let us go back, say ten years, and see whether or not we have a real reason for the protection of our orchards.
Ten years ago the navel crop of 1912 was quite seriously affected by a frost, sporadic in its nature, it is true, but it touched many growers. In 1913 we had a heavy frost—a major frost, which seriously affected this district; and, because we are in Covina and most of you, perhaps, are from Covina, or from the trade territory of Covina, I will refer a number of times in my talk to this part.

In the year 1914 there was also quite a loss; then in 1922 we had a frost equal in severity to that of 1913, but more far-reaching. Our trees in 1913 were in better condition to stand low temperatures than they were this year. This year the frost came in a hurry, without warning, while the sap was running freely in the trees, and the trees were in proper condition to be affected seriously by cold weather. In 1913, if you remember, before the frost we had several days of cold weather, which prepared the trees for the frost that they had later. So it seems quite obvious to me that, if we have in ten years' time, four freezes, there certainly is a real reason for intensive study of orchard heating; and, personally, I think that if a man expects to invest real money in a grove, he is not a good business man in every sense of the word unless he goes further and in some way does his part to protect the fruit he expects to raise.

If we could think of oranges in the terms of money, we might look at it differently. You may have ten thousand dollars' worth of fruit on your trees, and you go to bed trusting to the Lord to keep the frost away, while, if you had ten thousand dollars in gold lying out in your orchard, most of you would have twenty or thirty men with saved-off shotguns watching that ten thousand dollars to see that no one came and carried it away. We do not realize that oranges are the same as money. So it seems to me, if we expect to stay in the business permanently and stay in to advantage, we must protect ourselves against the weather.

If you will pardon a reference to the properties that are under my direction—because I happen to know more about them and the results of our own methods of protection—I want to say a few words about this. I do not want to say anything about the value of one smudge pot over another. That is a matter outside of the question in hand; but I do want to speak to you on behalf of community prosperity and the relation of the smudge pot to that prosperity.

After the season of 1913 our company equipped the groves with an improved type of heater, with a capacity of seven gallons, and we were in good shape to stand most of the freezes. While taking the best care possible of these heaters, however, there has been a considerable amount of depreciation. We cleaned them and painted them each year and watched over them carefully, and yet our equipment is a good deal smaller today. At that time we had 50 or 60 pots to the acre, but this year we were confronted with this problem: of spreading our equipment out as thin as we dared, as we failed to put more money into smudge equipment last fall.
You can see then that every heater had to be burned to its full capacity if we expected to save our crop during this last heavy frost.

The value of orchard heating is in heating in a large block. The land lying west of Grand Avenue and including our property is nearly all heated, so we have a solid block of 1000 acres, each acre helping the other, and we were greatly helped by all the smudging on our east. We were rather fortunate in realizing that we lived in a cold section, and that we had to fight the frost. But to return to the large block—that is one of the important facts to consider. An isolated ten acres has a harder fight, for it has a large expanse of unheated territory proving a menace to its crop. We had a small equipment but a large surface to cover. We have on our property thirty rows in one of our forties that were intersect three years ago with small trees.

The large trees had not been removed but we wanted to replace them. We could not place pots under these trees, and we estimated that the crop hanging on the navels amounted to 3000 field boxes. We were enabled to take out of that 3000, 350 packing boxes of mer-chantable fruit. The influence of the heat in adjoining groves kept the trees in good shape, but we lost the fruit.

I bring this before you for this reason: It has been said to me a number of times in the past three weeks that we evidently did not have any cold weather, because we could not have saved our fruit or have our trees look like they do if we had experienced the cold that other districts suffered to the north and south of us.

To give you another instance: It is very hard to get comparative temperatures inside the firing zone and outside; but with a thermometer outside of our pots that showed a temperature of 17 degrees, you can see that if we had warmth in some parts, we certainly had some cold weather down where we were smudging. A man to be successful in orchard heating must work with intelligence, with diligence, perseverance and downright earnestness, he must be willing to sit up nights and watch his property, and work hard and long during those night hours on his proposition or he is doomed.

With the present style of pot one of the greatest drawbacks and the hardest work is refilling on the second day. We had one tank wagon to every 960 pots, which is entirely too much to expect of any outfit. We run our equipment practically all the 24 hours of the day.
The night work was easiest—the lighting. We must look forward to a more efficient pot and general improvement in orchard heating. We must go into it very thoroughly, especially, it seems to me, as to the quality of oil we are burning, no matter what pot we are using, because we are satisfied through experiments we can improve not only the efficiency, but also get rid of a great deal of soot that injures the trees, the gardens, the homes, and also the merchandise in the dry goods and other stores of the community. I think we have years of intensive study and experiment before us. But the time has come when our orchards must have more improved devices for taking care of cold weather.

Perhaps you will be interested in a few figures that I have gotten together as to the result and effects of frost damage:

Many districts on account of high prices will return as much money as in some other better years; but that money is not distributed evenly. It is confined to a few people; therefore it does not contribute to community prosperity. Unless we can get enough to pay us a reasonable return on our investment, we are not getting the prosperity the community deserves and needs to maintain its position. Therefore, even if we return more dollars this year for navels, it is not spelling community prosperity. During the last four years we have compiled figures very carefully, showing that into the trade channels of Covina has been poured annually $3,- 800,000—an enormous sum. That is the money that comes through the Covina Fruit Exchange, the portion of the San Dinias Fruit Exchange that drifts into the business channels of Covina, part of the A. C. G. that comes through here, and an estimate of the other channels.
In all, $3,800,000 coming into the trade channels of Covina. In making a very careful estimate on the value of the recovery this year as represented by packing house figures we get $600,000 as the total return of the fruit coming to Covina, or a nett loss of $3,200,000. An astounding sum for a community like Covina to have to lose!

We must consider the far-reaching effects. Not only has the fruit been lost and the crop perhaps injured for the next year, but the heart of the tree may be injured in many cases, especially so in the case of lemons, and so we have not only lost the money that should have been returned for the fruit, but the care of the orchard for the coming year, and instead of having your money come back from the East to help you in caring for your orchard, you have got to dig down in your jeans for that money or borrow the necessary funds to carry on the care of your grove; so you have lost money for your crop and lost the amount necessary to care for the grove. Therefore it seems to me that, when we speak of community prosperity, we are on the right track, for it is very evident that we must have a general prosperity. If we expect to stay in the orange and lemon business we must do our part and show a willingness to investigate every means at our disposal and go to the very limit as far as money, efforts, nervous energy and enthusiasm are concerned, or lose our crops and forget the orange business.

In leaving this question I would say this: that there is a very definite reason for the smudging of our oranges or the heating of our orchards; but we must first make up our minds to do the job thoroughly and not, like many this year, make a half-hearted attempt to heat the groves and suffer loss of our crops.

The Covina chamber of commerce should be complimented for its concerted action in calling this convention, looking forward to improvement in the heating smudge pot or other heating device. I hope this convention will develop into great good to California, and that the growers of citrus fruit will change, or some other organization, will continue in a very definite way to look into the development of better heating devices, and the better development of an oil that will not subject our orchards and groves to the soot and smoke that they have hitherto had to endure.

The man has been missing for the past family much alarm. He has been in ill health for several weeks and it is feared that he has become mentally deranged. He is about thirty years of age and is five feet eight inches in height. Constable Saunders states that he has al-

(My commission expires Feb. 1st, 1922)

HOW human it is to be grateful to the defenders of our country in time of war, and to give scant appreciative thought to the soldiers and sailors who serve in time of peace.

A similar attitude is sometimes taken toward the services of the funeral director. Yet the very fact that he is professionally trained, modernly equipped and fully prepared to serve us in the crisis we could in nowise face without him is in itself a service to us all

In the time of need he answers every call, no matter at what hour of the day or night it comes, no matter how far it takes him, to what dangerous or disagreeable tasks it leads him, or what suffering he must witness and, being human, must share.

Then it is that you find in him a friend and counselor, and because he has been called so many times into homes where sorrow has called first, he understands just what to do in the way that makes the last tribute a comforting memory.

Wherever Heat Is Needed—

Burn Carbon Briquets

The Best Solid Fuel

Carbon Briquets are made by compressing carbon into cylindrical form convenient for handling and burning. They have a high fuel value and give a steady, lasting heat.

For Household and General Use

Carbon Briquets are the ideal fuel for the grate, the "airtight" heater, the furnace, the kitchen range (where gas can not be obtained) or for any service requiring steady, even heat. A pair of tongs, free on request with your first order for one ton or more of Carbon Briquets, makes handling easy and clean.

For Orchard Heating

Eliminates the smudgy smoke that makes the usual methods of heating orchards so offensive. Heaters for burning Carbon Briquets are inexpensive and efficient.

Price

The price of Carbon Briquets is $13.00 per ton delivered in the 5-mile zone in Los Angeles. For more distant points, the price is adjusted to cover the increased cost of drayage. We will be glad to quote prices for any point upon request. Use the blank below.

For Brooder Stoves

Because of their even heat and long-burning qualities, Carbon Briquets are superior for use in brooder stoves intended for solid fuel.

Appliances

For convenience in handling the Carbon Briquets, we offer free (while they last) a pair of Carbon Briquet tongs with your first order for 1 or more tons. Only one pair to the customer. We also have a high quality grate which fits nicely into the fireplace. We can sell this grate, until further notice, to each 1-ton customer for $4.00, which is much below the retail price.

"Family Day" Held At Methodist Church

By MARTIN FESLER.

Last Sunday was family day at the Methodist church, and a bouquet of roses was given to the largest family seated together. A. H. Harnish and his family took the prize. Those eligible to be counted were sons, daughters, sons-in-law, and daughters-in-law and grandchildren. There were twelve in the Harnish family, and ten in the Budd family, with quite a number of families of a half dozen.

In the good old days before the maternal instincts ran to dogs, large families were the rule and not the exception, but under the regime of the modern flat, where children are not allowed, the rule has been reversed. We are thankful that Covina does not boast of buildings of that sort, and that children are still welcome.

The modern built-in apartment consists of one rather large room that is livingroom, diningroom and bedroom all in one. The capacity of one of these compact apartments is husband and wife, with possibly a dog. Mary gets up in the morning and gives a kick to the door that is pivoted in the center and it whirls around and bingo! out comes the stove that is bolted on the inside of the door. Bill gets up and lashes the bedding to the bed and takes hold of the foot of it and rears it up on its hind legs and presto! now you see it and now you don't! And that is that, so far as the bed goes. The apartment now becomes the kitchen and dining-room. Breakfast over, Bill is on his way to his business, the stove is turned back into the closet where there is a small sink, and the extension is detached from the library table, and now it becomes the livingroom.

If this was a real American home, the next thing would be to get the youngster out of bed and give it the attention that is the joy of a mother's heart, but in the flat it is the poodle that gets this attention. The test of a good housekeeper in a flat is that there shall be no dog odor in it, and to do this requires frequent trips to the bath tub with Trixy. It is no fun being a dog in a flat. After his bath he must be wrapped in a dog bathrobe and laid on the couch to dry or he will catch a cold and have to be sent to a dog and cat hospital where he is allowed to circulate in the fresh air and get well, for dogs do not catch cold if allowed to live close to nature as God intended they should. The genius of the world is centered in the white race. Nine-tenths of the world is governed by them. How long will this supremacy last if instead of children we substitute dogs?

When Columbus discovered the western hemisphere he first landed on the island of Hayti. He sent his son over as governor, and this island had many years the start of any other land of the west toward civilization. For a considerable time it was governed by the French, who imported negroes to the island as slaves. They became so numerous that they supplanted their masters and took a try at government on their own hook. They made such a failure of it that the United States sent the marines down there about seven years ago to restore order. The negroes took to the jungle and they have been fighting ever since, and they have drifted back into cannibalism. If they catch a marine out unarmed, he is captured and tortured and later becomes a marine feed for them. They have been chasing those negroes through the jungles for seven years and conditions are worse than when they began. All classes despise the marines and malaria is making it a costly affair. I think a couple dozen Booker T. Washingtons would do more to settle that difficulty than the marines, at about 1 per cent of the cost. Possibly if we drafted some of the dogs and sent them down there they might help to run them down.

Some of the southern states have a large excess population of blacks, and they too need to be handled in a different way from that prevailing now. There is no race suicide among them. While the white population is destroying each other by wars and in other ways, other races are clamoring for recognition and a chance to boss the job, and with people disposed to allow the race to end with their family in many cases, it will not be long until they can do it. The hope of the white race is centered in the Harnishes and the Budds and those willing to make good, and God's blessing is on all such.

If God has denied you the blessing of children of your own, He has not taken from you the opportunity to adopt one, and some homes have been made very happy in this way. If this is your misfortune, go thou and do likewise.

Covina Wins Last League Ball Game

By HAROLD DOUGHTY.

The curtain dropped on the 1922 baseball season for the Covina high school varsity squad last week when on Thursday they played the South Pasadena team on the latter's lot. The score for the affair was 9 to 2. Although the season was hardly what could be called the best, it has been successful in many ways. A more victorious season is looked forward to for the "frosh" ball-players, who have thus far won their first two league games by a large score.

Durant was on the mound for the locals and he pitched good ball. His support was good throughout the game, especially around the keystone sack. Werden played his best game of the season, playing many difficult chances and also taking part in two fast double plays. He was also the big hitter for the day also, landing three safe bingles in four trips to the rubber. A couple of his hits went for extra bases. The ground rules for the park prevented him from making a homer on one of his hits.

Covina put one over in the first when they came to bat. Werden scored the first run when he came home after his hit, which was followed by a couple of sacrifices. Covina added one more about the third and then relaxed for several innings. South Pasadena put one over in the second and one in the fourth, which left things on an "even Stephen" basis for some time.

The game looked as if it was for either team until the seventh, when the locals struck their colors and put over seven runs. About this time, the South Pasadena Tigers changed heavens, but their second selection proved no better than the first, for he was nicked for several hits which followed several free passes to first. South Pasadena made a desperate effort in the eighth and ninth, but these amounted to nothing, when the Bearcats executed as pretty a double play as has been seen in the whole season.

Of the six games played this season the locals won two of them, one from Citrus and last week's from South Pasadena. The team was put in bad shape early in the season by losing their three star heavies of last year. Had they had their pitchers with them, nothing but a streak of bad luck could have kept them from the gonfalon of the Central league.

The team will lose four of the regulars for next season, chief of whom is Captain Dave Meiklejohn. Meiklejohn was the team's chief hitter for the season, hitting well over .500. He was followed by last year's high school man, Werden, who hit out 17 safeties out of 36 trips to the plate. With Werden left to do most of the heavy work with the stick for next season, it is likely that he will even surpass his excellent work for the past three seasons.

Baseball Game Turns Into a Track Meet

The Redlands Elks were on hand Sunday to play the Covina "Wow" ball team, but no game was played. Both teams consented to have a track meet. Redlands was in great form and after chasing their men around the bases for nine convulsive spasms, totaled 28 runs, while the best the "Wows" could do was to put over four.

The game might have ended after the first for the visitors as far as they were concerned, for they fell upon Watson, who started the terrible affair, and nailed him for six tallies. He was allowed to stay in until about the fourth, when Dick Jackson took hold of things for a couple of innings. He fared no better than his predecessor and was relieved by Olmstead. Olmstead let in O'Brien the next inning, but came back again in the next frame and finished up the battle. He made a better showing than all the other heavies combined.

A southpaw was on duty for Redlands and the "Wows" were unable to find him at any time up to the ninth. They had previously put two over, and by all powers possible made an attack which resulted in two more. The number of hits for the locals did not number more than a half dozen or so, while the Elks had more hits than could be counted without the aid of an adding machine. Many bingles which should have gone for easy putouts were converted into extra base hits by poor outfielding. John Clutterbuck went in as shortstop in the ninth for his first appearance and slammed out a double to deep left when he came to the plate. Bad weather kept a growing crowd away from the park.

J. HORACE MALLOWS RESIGNS SAN DIMAS PASTORATE

Rev. J. Horace Malloys, pastor of the Union church at San Dimas, and one of the best-known divines in this valley, surprised his congregation on Sunday by tendering his resignation at the close of the morning service. He stated that an entire change would be necessary for a time on account of declining health. His departure is the subject of concern not only to the church in San Dimas, but to the entire valley, for his genial fellowship had made for him many friends.

Report Submitted By Anti-Frost Committee

The committee of ranchers, shippers, and business men, appointed by the Covina chamber of commerce to investigate methods and devices for the prevention of frost damage to the citrus groves of California, submitted its findings at a meeting of the directorate of the Covina chamber of commerce, held on Tuesday. The report is as follows:

Covina, Cal., May 9, 1922.

To the board of directors of the Covina chamber of commerce.

Gentlemen: Your frost prevention committee begs to submit a report of their investigations.

Your committee decided in the early part of their work that if there was anything else other than smudge pots that we would never recommend that our beautiful valley should be polluted with the smoke from these so-called orchard heaters.

We have gone into this matter from all angles, have demonstrated with air machine models and later conceived the idea of holding a frost convention. The publicity given by your secretary, as well as the Los Angeles Examiner, through the kindness of Mr. Insley, who is on the Examiner editorial staff, brought out practically all the known devices and many suggestions and ideas; also brought to Covina a large number of people from all over the state, who are interested in better frost prevention methods.

At this convention it was thought best to put through a resolution to the effect of having this investigational work carried on by some central body, such as the Fruit Growers' Supply Company of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange. While this resolution passed the convention, it was so changed in its construction and in the organization to be urged to continue this work that we feel very little, if anything, will be accomplished so far as investigational work in a large way.

Various inventors and others would like to put up their experimental plants in Covina and have our people help finance them, and something along this line is now being accomplished with one of the most meritorious devices that your committee has seen.

The following are our conclusions:

That from our investigations, we believe there are at least two, possibly more, well defined principles that have prospects of better frost protection methods:

(a) The wind machines, or what we call the "windjammers," to be operated with and without heat, but all more or less in the experimental stage, with the exception of one, known as the Cobb device, the inventor having one machine in operation in Lindsay, Tulare county, for the past three years, and in this year's operation the grower claims to have saved 80 per cent of his crop. At least he has shipped this much, while his neighbors' fruit was frozen. We have checked up this statement and find it is correct.

(b) Heat-generating plants, the heat to be generated by furnace and blowers from a central plant; also acetylene generator plant, the heat to be distributed to each tree by means of underground or surface pipes. These various plans are also largely in an experimental stage, none having been in actual use. The Bell plan is now in process of construction in Pomona, and will shortly be ready for operation.

We are not ready at this time to make any recommendation, and wish you to consider this as informative rather than as final. Our future work will be investigational as well as experimental, and we may from time to time call upon your body as individuals to cooperate with and aid us in putting in some experimental plant, which we feel would be for the community good.

We believe that our chamber of commerce, as well as Covina as a community, has received much favorable publicity; and from our work much constructive good will result, in stimulating the inventive genius and capital in getting behind some device or devices that have merit, and pushing them to a successful conclusion.

Respectfully submitted,

The Methodist conference has secured eleven hundred acres and from this time on all summer activities of the church will be held there instead of at Huntington Beach. Every dollar of profit secured from the sale of lots will be devoted to the erection and endowment of educational and religious enterprises on the tract. The season of the Azusa-Glendora-Covina chautauqua will open at Azusa, where excellent arrangements are made for it, Tuesday, May 16 and will run to May 22. W. P. Watts is the Covina official representative and the Chamber of Commerce is sales agent for the tickets. These cost $7.50 for the season, with an extra charge of ten cents for each performance for which a reserve is made, or $1.00 for reserve for the full season. About twenty performances, all good, will be given. Covina has always given liberal patronage, and will doubtless do so again.

Mrs. Irene Doughty of Orange street returned this week from a week's visit in Oakland on a business trip.
